AMIC IDRC Seminar on Development and Communication in the 1990s : What Needs To Be Done, Singapore, Apr 2-6, 1990
- Singapore : Asian Mass Communication Research and Information Centre, 1990.

lv (various pagings)

The seminar was to attempt looking at communication and development not just from the perspective of communication alone but also from a total systems point of view and thus bring into focus variables hardly given any attention in communication studies such as political, social and economic power, conflict management, the dynamics of decision-making in allocation of scarce resources, etc.
