Outline of the Textbook
Annex II

Outline of the Textbook on Communication Ethics from a South Asian Perspective

Title: Ethical Perspectives on Communications in South Asia

I. Overview: Foundations of Communication Ethics
(Virgilio S. Labrador)
- Definition of communication ethics and mores
- Western and Eastern approaches to communication ethics
- Media situation in South Asia
- Introduction to social, cultural and political parameters of communication ethics in the context of South Asia

II. Ethical Dilemmas in Communications: Emerging Issues and Trends
(Dr. B.P. Sanjay)

Five substantive issues:
- invasion of privacy
- truth telling
- exploitation
- violence
- democratic participation

- Nature of media ownership: government ownership of media; monopolies; how business considerations of proprietors shape editorial policy and conduct.

- Conflicts of interest: business interests of media vs. their social responsibility

- Content of media: what is covered and what is not covered; how coverage is decided and done; presentation of issues and developments

- Delivery mechanisms of mass media:
  - increasingly sophisticated technologies
  - increasingly transboundary in nature

- Pressures and threats on mass media organisations and practitioners

- Corruption in media: working conditions of journalists; state patronage of journalists

- Portrayal of women in the media; opportunities and constraints for women working in media

- Agenda-setting and gate-keeping roles of the media

Box article: Issues identified by the Press Council of India and the resulting draft code of ethics
III. Social and Cultural Dimensions of Communication Ethics in South Asia

- Social stratification on the lines of caste, ethnicity, education and other factors
- Diversity and/or plurality of cultural, ethnic/linguistic and religious groups within and among South Asian countries
- Influence of religion
- Gender issues
- Problems of underdevelopment (poverty, illiteracy, etc.)
- Threats to social integration: drugs, armed conflicts, social unrest, ethnic tensions

Box articles: Islamic journalism; Political correctness: South Asian style

IV. Policy and Legal Dimensions of Communication Ethics in South Asia
(Dr T Anwar)

A  Policy aspects

- Media ethics in a broader national framework: the need for cross-sectoral ethics in politics, governance, judiciary, other professions and in public affairs
- Difference between state regulation and control of communications industry
- Information-rich and information-poor societies/countries: implications for communication ethics
- Governments' struggle to cope with rapidly changing electronic media landscape
- Broadcasting models adopted in South Asian countries
- News values: domination by Western news services (even for coverage of South Asian affairs)

B  Legal and judicial aspects

- Common heritage: colonial legacy (in legal traditions and approach)
- Legal provisions for freedom of information and freedom of expression in South Asian countries: Are the existing restrictions on these freedoms reasonable and justified? (Emergency powers, national security, morality)
- American influence on communication ethics (concepts of free press, freedom of information, etc.)

- Specific legal interpretations and applications:
  - religious laws
  - laws and regulations pertaining to the electronic media
  - Judicial interpretation of communication ethics (and media's interpretations of judicial conduct and ethics?)
  - International covenants on human rights: implications
  - Privileges: media enjoys no special privileges; however, there are derived from certain institutions covered by the media

Box article: Redefining role positions of the state, judiciary and the media: Bangladesh example

V Communication Ethics and the Role of the State
(Mr V Gunewardena)

- Journalist's social accountability and media ethics
- Historical evolution of media ethics (principles and codes)
- Concept of moral duty
- Freedom of expression: provisions in international instruments
  - Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR)
  - International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR)
  - International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR)
- Permissible restrictions on freedom of expression

Self regulation:
- Press Councils
- Codes of Ethics

- Voluntary Codes of Ethics
- Codes of Ethics for electronic media
- How to enforce a Code of Ethics, and how can its adherence be monitored?
- Need for public interest intervention
- What is the public interest?
- Justification/rationale for state intervention
- Implications of emerging new communication technologies

Box article: Sri Lanka's Code of Ethics for the print media (1981)
VI Communication Ethics and Media Practitioners and Institutions
(Dr. Leela Rao)
- Mechanisms:
  - Press Councils
  - Journalists organisations
  - Organisations of newspapers proprietors
  - Advertising Standards Councils
  - Press Ombudsmen
  - Code of Ethics
  - Regional and International media organisations

- Pressures:
  - Internal factors: poor salaries and working conditions; lack of recognition and appreciation, etc.
  - External factors: officially imposed censorship; consumer/civic groups, etc.

Box article: Statistical analysis of cases adjudicated by the Indian Press Council
