ABOUT AMIC

Based in Singapore, with regional representatives throughout the Asia-Pacific region, the Asian Media Information and Communication Centre provides a number of services for people involved in communication.

Established in 1971, the Centre functions as a clearing house of information, as a focal point for communication practitioners and scholars to exchange experience and ideas, and as a publishing house devoted to communication issues. AMIC's specialist library houses one of Asia's largest collections of books, periodicals, conference papers and audiovisual materials.

As a catalyst for effective communication and socioeconomic development, AMIC cooperates with governments and national bodies as well as working in close association with international organizations such as The World Bank, UNESCO and The Commonwealth Secretariat.

Membership is open to individuals and institutions involved and interested in the study and practice of mass communication.
