<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>AMIC Mass Media and Cross Cultural Communication Research Planning Meeting : Singapore, Jul 27-29, 1993 : [bibliography]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Author(s)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Citation</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Date</td>
<td>1993</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>URL</td>
<td>http://hdl.handle.net/10220/2914</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rights</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Bibliography
TELEVISION, SATELLITE (India)

✓ Suggests how Doordarshan can effectively counter the invasion of airwaves by foreign TV networks.

JINDAL (V.G.). Catch the rising 'Star'. Financial Express.
22 December 1992; 5.
✓ Evaluates how the advent of Satellite TV has changed the complexion of broadcasting in the country.

SIFI (Jamal). Meeting the challenge from skies. Tribune.
7 December 1992; 11.
✓ Discusses how Doordarshan can meet the challenge from skies.

YADAV (J-S). Open skies for TV. Hindustan Times. 3 December
1992; 11.
✓ Explains how the foreign broadcast via satellite has revolutionised the communication scene in India.

THEATRE, FESTIVAL, NATIONAL, Calcutta.

IF WISHES were horses... Asoi Palekar speaks to Rajanathan
Makkar. Illustrated Weekly of India. 112 (50); 12
December 1992; 36-37.
✓ Speaks about the Ninth Nandikar National Theatre festival held in Calcutta.

DNC/DPD/RMG/92/26
RADIO, FM (India)

Writes about the FM service which was launched by AIR in 1977.

SATELLITE COMMUNICATION

Analyses the impact of satellite technology and concerned policy issues in a changing Asia.

QUEERAL (Nora C). Application of information and communication technology to development. Media Asia. 19 (4); 1992; 215-216.

Looks at high information and communication technology and discusses its impact on society.

TELEVISION (India)

Suggests how Doordarshan can meet the challenge posed by foreign networks.

SAKSENA (Gopal). Meandering metre. TV and Video World. 10 (3); March 1993; 47-50.

Expresses the views of four senior media professionals on the state of the electronic media in the country.

TELEVISION AND WOMEN (India)

Comments on the portrayal of women in Doordarshan's programmes.
AGARWAL (1993). Metro channel: To see or not to see.
India Today, 18(6), 31 March 1993; 136.
Gives a brief account of the metro channel whose start had difference of opinion between I&B bureaucrats and the Air Time Committee of India (ATCT).

TELEVISION, PROGRAMMER (India)

TV & Video World, 10(3), March 1993; 30-34.
Gives an account of the programmes produced by United Television.

TELEVISION, SATellite (India)

SIRAJ BYED. Satellite TV: The earth is the limit.
TV & Video World, 10(3), March 1993; 90-91.
Discusses how the satellite TV's multi-channel options have revolutionised the entertainment scene in India.

TELEVISION, Satellite, Zee

Surveys the Zee TV programmes which are gaining popularity due to A1 over other satellite networks.

ATTENTION: The Singapore Copyright Act applies to the use of this document. Nanyang Technological University Library
Studies the long term impact of cable and satellite TV on society, lifestyle, attitudes and thinking of the people.

BHAJAT (Shana). It's not so easy! TV & Video World. 19 (11); November 1992; 34-41.

Assesses the prospects of new satellite channels like ATN and Zee TV.

Describes the scope and social implications of satellite TV advertising.

CHANDOK (Sanjiv) With theRs. 300 million TV & Video World. 9 (8); August 1992; 32-34.

Speaks to representatives of the proposed Asian Television Network (ATN) and seeks reactions from industry professionals on its possible prospects.

D'SILVA (Rensil). 'A new order?' TV & Video World. 9 (2); February 1992; 80-82.

Explains what is satellite TV and how it functions.

Suggests how Doordarshan can effectively counter the invasion of airwaves by foreign TV networks.

Discusses how Doordarshan can meet the challenge of STAR TV without closing its objectives.

SATellite TV

Expresses views on how to curb this growing exposure of foreign programmes in the country.

GILL (S.S). Living with sky TV. Hindu. 5 April 1992; 1-2 (Magazine).
Finds out what is Doordarshan's response to the exponential growth of satellite television in the country.

JAYANTI (A.T). Invasion from the skies. Sunday Observer. 7 (3); 23 August 1992; I.
Report on the new challenges posed by the STAR TV by introducing Zee TV and Asian television network, both in Hindi.

Evaluates how the advent of Satellite TV has changed the complexion of broadcasting in the country.

A brief account of TV ASIA, a satellite channel for Asians in Europe.

MAGIC IN the sky: India's response to the challenge of the di
Vidura. 29 (3); September 1992; 4-21.
A discussion with media personalities on the scope of CNN and other television services and India's response to this challenge.

MERCHANT (Imran). Invasion from the sky? TV and Video World 9 (10); October 1992; 25-27.
Report on the seminar on, 'Invasion from the sky' organised by the Advertising Club, Bombay.
SATISLLMA TV

MERCHANT (Imran). No news is bad news. TV & Video World. 9 (8); August 1992; 30-31.
Assesses the impact of satellite TV and discusses a few basic issues arising out of Government’s handling of this emerging competition.

MERCHANT (Imran). Switching Channels. TV & Video World. 9 (11); November 1992; 30-37.
Attempts to find out the impact of STAR TV on Indian Broadcasting.

Focuses on the influence of foreign telecast on our culture especially in metro cities.

An assessment of growth of satellite TV in India.

RAKHSH (G.K.) and KASHYAP (Hima). Zee TV: bonanza for Bollywood, and Twinkle’s week. 10 (39); 20 September 1992; 8-16.
Attempts to find out the impact of Zee TV on Doordarshan.

RAJ MOOBIDRI (Deepak). Cultural imperialism from the skies. Outlooker. 53 (17); 15 August 1992; 3-4.
Wrote about the spreading reach of STAR-TV in the country.

SARI (Jamil). Meeting the challenge from skies. Tribune. 7 December 1992; 11.
Discusses how Doordarshan can meet the challenge from satellite TV.
SATELLITE TV

√ SARDESAI (Raajdeep). Wait and Zee. Times of India. 6 September 1992; 11.
Finds out what programmes will be offered by Zee TV, the Hindi channel of STAR TV.

√ SARKAR (Chanchal). Challenge before television in India. Mainstream. 30 (51); 17 October 1992; 26.
Discusses the challenge that television is going to face due to the developments in satellite broadcasting.

√ SONDHI (Krishan Lal). Winning the big battle in the sky. Illustrated Weekly of India. 112 (32); 6 August 1992; 6-10a.
Analyses how INSAT II A and INSAT II B could be used to fight the devastation caused by the STAR TV.

Explains what Doordarshan is trying to adapt to the changed situation in order to survive in the present scenario.

Discusses what Doordarshan is doing to counter the invasion from sky.

√ TISHANA (Shafaq). The Death-knell of DD. Deccan Chronicle. 3 January, 1992; 1,4.
Presents views of several media experts on the satellite TV.

√ YADAVA (A.S.). Open skies for TV. Hindustan Times. 3 December 1992; 11.
Explains how the foreign broadcast via satellite has revolutionised the communication scene in India.
TELEVISION, SATELLITE, STAR (India)

MENON (Imran). Switching Channels. TV & Video World. 9 (11); November 1992; 36-37.

Attempts to find out the impact of STAR TV on Indian Broadcasting.

VIDEO LIBRARY (India)

TRIPATHI (Praveen). Video libraries fight for ENTERTAINMENT. TV & Video World. 9 (11); November 1992; 52-55.

A study relating to the impact of satellite television on video libraries in India.
TELEVISION, SATELLITE

Focusses on the influence of satellite TV on viewers in India.

GROVER (Jill), et al. - World at your home. Telegraph. 29 September 1991; 4-10 (Magazine).

Writes about the recent spread of cable TV and dish antenna which are fast undergoing a revolution in home entertainment.

A brief account of the programmes offered by the erstwhile four channels of the STD TV.

Discusses the implications of satellite television.
SANGEET NATAK AKADEMY

GIRISH KARNAD, "I am only an ornamental head". Speaks to Nabanita Sircar Drona. Pioneer. 29 November 1992;
5 (Magazine).

Girish Karnad, Chairman, Sangeet Natak Academy, speaks on culture-related issues.

TELEVISION, CABLE (India)

JINDAL (V-G). Cable TV: outlines of a policy 2 pts.
Economic Times. 13, 14 November 1992; 8, 12.
Keeping in view the social-economic considerations in the country, outlines a policy for Cable TV operations.

TELEVISION NEWS (Third World Countries)

INTERNATIONAL TV news in the post cold war era: A third world perspective. Inter Media. 19 (1); 1992; 22-23.
A seminar report prepared for the 1991 International Institute of Communications conference held in Singapore.

TELEVISION, SATELLITE (India)

BHASHA (Chand). It's not so ex-zee! TV & Video World. 9 (11); November 1992; 34-41.
Assesses the prospects of new satellite channels like ATN and Zee TV.

RAHMAN (K). The new TV superbazarr: Now at your finger tips.
India Today. 17 (21); 1 November 1992; 22-25, 28, 31, 33, 35-36.
An assessment of growth of Satellite TV in India.
The fact is that various Government agencies, including Doordarshan and the Finance Ministry, have consistently given a special treatment to Roy causing uproar among a whole lot of other deprived producers and professionals. Doordarshan is so overawed by Roy that it looks the other way when he changes the concept and the format of his The World This Week at his own sweet will. Maybe because the rate of viewing of the programme, which Roy has been allowed to produce for five years, is steadily dwindling, national events have been introduced in the programme. Interview-based, accounts of domestic events which do not go well with the programme as originally conceived are now introduced in Roy's programme without let or hindrance.

The question raised by a large body of television producers who have no particular clout in the Government or Doordarshan is why not throw open its doors to more and more professionals before the monopoly of the Roys becomes unbreakable. And there are many who are only too willing to take up the challenge bringing Doordarshan more revenue and viewers an experience of freshness.

Largesse to vend FM reforms

The fact is that various Government agencies, including Doordarshan and the Finance Ministry, have consistently given a special treatment to Roy causing uproar among a whole lot of other deprived producers and professionals. Doordarshan is so overawed by Roy that it looks the other way when he changes the concept and the format of his The World This Week at his own sweet will. Maybe because the rate of viewing of the programme, which Roy has been allowed to produce for five years, is steadily dwindling, national events have been introduced in the programme. Interview-based, accounts of domestic events which do not go well with the programme as originally conceived are now introduced in Roy's programme without let or hindrance.

The question raised by a large body of television producers who have no particular clout in the Government or Doordarshan is why not throw open its doors to more and more professionals before the monopoly of the Roys becomes unbreakable. And there are many who are only too willing to take up the challenge bringing Doordarshan more revenue and viewers an experience of freshness.